POINTED ALLUSIONS.

We think Sargent is entitled to a large sized credit mark for the manner in which he rebuked one of his brother Senators, when the Louisiana question was under discussion in the Senate. The telegraph says: In finishing his address Sargent made a passing allusion to the attempted assassination of Packard. At this Senator Withers with great rudeness and lack of dignity laughed outright. Sargent turned upon him and quickly asked: "Does the gentleman laugh at my allusion to the attempted assassination of Packard?" "Yes," said Withers, "that was what I was laughing at." "Well, then," continued Sargent, "perhaps you will also laugh at the article which yesterday appeared in a Democratic paper of this city and which advised the Democrats belonging to the White League to kill President Hayes on his way to the Capitol. Perhaps you also laugh at the murder of the Republican President, Abraham Lincoln, assassinated by one of your Democrats; or at the bloody civil war which was brought on by your party." To these pointed remarks Withers attempted to reply, but did not succeed.

THE NEXT CABINET.—Republicans now regard the inauguration of Hayes as certain and are busily engaged in Cabinet-making. The latest suggestion is that President Hayes might with propriety, in view of the extraordinary circumstances under which he will take his seat, invite Southern Democrats to a seat in his Cabinet. The names of Bayard, of Delaware, and Hancock, of Texas, are named in this connection. Bayard commands more fully than any other Democrat the calm confidence and respect of his party, and would be regarded by the Republicans as a safe conservative statesman. Hancock is a Democratic representative from Texas. He was expelled from the Legislature of that State in 1863 because he would not take the secession oath, and did faithful service for the Union cause throughout the war. He was supported for the United States Senate a year ago by the liberal wing of the Democrats of his State, but was beaten by Gov. Coke, chiefly on account of his Union record.

GOVERNOR HAYES AT HOME.—Fred Douglass spent the day in Columbus, says a dispatch, and had an interview with Governor Hayes. The Democrats give up the fight and are as a rule accepting the situation very quietly. Mr. Hayes will not resign his place as Governor until he has a dead sure thing on the Presidency and the official result is declared by the President of the Senate, but will vacate it within 48 hours after that announcement is made known. He received a telegram on Sunday from Barnum, the showman, as follows: "I have no favors to ask, but for the sake of the country I thank God for your election." He refuses to talk about his future policy of his Cabinet, evidently believing that the present time is best to keep his own counsel and not to be too sure of the Presidency until all the snags are out of the channel. A number of the Democratic members of the General Assembly called on him to-day to tender their congratulations.

It is said Senator Morton will be Secretary of State under President Hays, Sherman Secretary of Treasury, and Sloughton Attorney-General. Events is to have the English Mission.

An extra session of Congress is inevitable. The important part of the policy of the new Administration will be appropriations for improvements in the South.

The Republicans have decided not to put in an objection to the counting of the vote of Mississippi for Tilden on account of the delay it would occasion.

Oregon will probably go to the Commission to-day.

Quite a number of our farmers have commenced plowing, and inform us that the soil is in very good condition. There seems to be very little complaint about the weather or the prospect for the crops next Summer. Of course it is too soon to begin to predict with any certainty, because everything depends upon the Summer freshets. — Carson Valley News.

THAT HORRID GRAVEYARD.

EDITOR JOURNAL: The following item appeared in a late number of the Journal, and with your permission I desire to point out its absurdity. I do so because I have often seen a similar statement published, and have heard it promulgated from the pulpit, in order to give the mind some idea or conception of the number of souls there must now be in heaven and hell; and as only comparatively a few succeed in entering the gates of the new Jerusalem, imagine the myriads of human souls already suffering the torments of eternal punishment. The article in the JOURNAL is as follows:

THE PEOPLE OF THE EARTH.—The number who have lived upon the earth since the creation has been estimated at about 27,000,000,000,000,000. This sum, when divided by 27,861,000, the number of square miles, gives 1,314,522,086 to a square rod, and five to a square foot. Suppose a square rod capable of being divided into eleven graves, each grave would contain one hundred persons so that the whole earth has been a hundred times dug over to bury its inhabitants, supposing they had been equally distributed. Were the bodies laid upon the surface, they would cover the land to the depth of one hundred feet.

A cursory examination of the above item reveals a serious error in the division; and the estimates are wide of the mark, if we take the Biblical history and time of creation of man as a basis to calculate from, and we can select no other data as a starting point. To calculate the surface of a globe multiply the square of the diameter by 3.1416; or its circumference by its diameter. Either of these rules will give the surface of the earth at about 200,000,000 square miles, instead of 27,861,000 square miles, as above represented; or 50,000,000 miles dry land, considering three-fourths water. To estimate the population for 6,000 years, or since creation, and the number that have died during that time I submit two methods, neither of which of course, are correct, but the error allows a greater population than there could have been: to-wit: The present population of the world is now greater than ever before, and is gradually increasing, and is now estimated at 1,000,000,000. Supposing there have been that number on earth continually since creation, 6,000 years (which is an error,) and supposing that the average of humane life during all that time has been what it is now estimated at, from 30 to 33 years—say 31½ years; then the world has been depopulated once in every 31½ years, or about 180 times since creation of man. Considering that 1,000,000,000 people, the present population, perished at each of these generations, then there have been 180,000,000,000 people died since creation. By the second method of calculation we arrive at about the same conclusion. Births and deaths at the present day are more frequent than in former ages when the average of life was longer and the population less than now. With our present population it is estimated that there is a birth and a death every second of time, the births preponderating; but supposing that there has been a birth and a death every second of time since creation, which is too liberal a calculation; then there can have been only as many births and deaths as there are seconds of time in 6,000 years. There are a little over 180,000,000,000 seconds of time in 6,000 years, consequently there have been 180,000,000,000 persons lived and died since creation, instead of 27,000,000,000,000,000 as above estimated. It will be seen that both of the methods approximate the same number, and necessarily allow too great a population to have existed, consequently our critics cannot complain of our calculation. Now, supposing every grave to be six feet long by two feet wide, containing twelve square feet, it would then require 2,268,000,000,000,000 square feet, or a trifle more than 80,000 square miles to bury, side by side, every human being that ever lived since the world began. The State of Nevada has 81,530 square miles, and would bury, side by side, every human being that ever lived and now lives on the face of the earth. H. A. WALDO.

A MATCH between the celebrated trotters, "Occident" and "Bodine," has been arranged to take place at Sacramento on March 31. "Occident" has a record of 2:16½, and "Bodine" of 2:19½. The affair will attract some attention.

Strother, Register in Bankruptcy, at Room 4, Odd Fellows' building, Virginia City.

THE FISH COMMISSIONERS.—On last Thursday 130,000 young white fish were received at Truckee from the Fish Commissioners, to be placed in Lake Tahoe, near Hot Springs. The snow being quite deep, it was with great difficulty that the fish were taken to their destination, the operation taking a team and six men an entire day to make the distance—16 miles. The previous week 75,000 young white fish were placed in Donner Lake, and 25,000 in Sereno and other lakes on the Summit. At Sereno lake, although only 1½ miles from the station, the snow was so deep that it took two men and a hand sled six hours to make that distance. The lake being frozen, holes were cut in the ice to put the young fish in. The notice published a few days ago in the Bulletin, that they would have some young Eastern trout for distribution to stock free our public streams has caused applications to exhaust the expected supply. This morning Fish Commissioner Redding received letters from the East stating that there would be no more trout eggs sent. This leaves only 130,000 to be distributed and the applications already in will have to be cut down to correspond. The Fish Commissioners are in treaty with Myron Green at the United States Fishery at McCloud River to purchase some California mountain trout eggs with a view to hatch out and place the same in some of the exhausted streams of this State. Mr. Green has secured some 200,000 trout eggs at McCloud River with a view of disposing of them. These eggs were taken from fish averaging about two pounds weight and of a different variety from those found in the coast streams which empty directly into the Pacific Ocean.—S. F. Bulletin.

PULVERIZED diamonds are in some parts of India reputed to be the least painful but the most active and infallible of all poisons. Rubies, however, reduced to powder are, it seems, considered to be rather beneficial to the health than otherwise. At least such is the opinion of the ex-Gaikwar of Baroda, who, according to one of the Indian papers, is now engaged in repairing his constitution, and, with this view, is in the habit of eating rubies in the form of a fine powder sprinkled over cakes. His Highness entertains a very high opinion of the medicinal qualities of rubies taken in this form, and expends a considerable portion of his income in buying these gems for conversion into physic. He also takes other precious stones, not as pills, but as powders, to assist in the restoration of his health, and has engaged a large number of native cooks, who have orders to leave no stone unpowdered, which, when mixed with confectionery, may be eaten with advantage.

Prior, Proctor, in a recent lecture, said: It is computed that hundreds of thousands of meteors become incorporated with the earth every twenty-four hours, and 400,000,000 in the course of each year. They may vary in weight between a few grains and a ton. One is known to have fallen in South America which weighed fifteen tons. Yet these small accretions to the earth's matter would take many millions of years to add a single foot to its diameter. It had been shown that one of these meteoric systems followed in the track of a small telescopic comet, although not to be confounded with its tail, and it was now the general opinion of astronomers that all these belts of meteors were similarly related to comets.

The Turf, Field and Farm states that the farmers in Nebraska have begun the domestication of the buffalo. The wild animals, when young, are introduced among herds of tame stock, of course only one or two at a time. Half and quarter breeds are found to be very hardy, and in the yield of milk the cows give even more than the average yield of rich milk. The experiment promises well, as the endurance of the wild animals is imparted to the domestic stock.

Gray is to be the fashionable Spring color.

BUT WHERE'S THE CAT?—The skeleton of a cat walked into Ryan's store at Hobokus. Ryan seeing her hawled out: "Mickey, didn't I tell ye a month ago to fade that cat a pound of mate a day until ye had her fat?" "You did, and I'm just after fading her a pound." "Has that cat ate a pound this morning?" "Yes, sir." "Shure, I think it's a lie ye're telling. Bring me that scales. Now bring me that cat." The cat turned the scales at exactly one pound. "There, didn't I tell ye she had eaten a pound of mate this mornin'?" "All right, my boy; there's yer pound of mate, but where the devil's the cat?"—New York Mail.
